

QUIET HOURS

Living and working in a community requires individuals to show each other mutual respect and consideration. Yale College recognizes quiet hours between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. Sunday through Thursday, and during reading period and exams; on other Fridays and Saturdays, quiet hours are between 1 a.m. and 8 a.m. Students should be mindful of noise during quiet hours, and at all times should use sound systems, musical instruments, televisions, etc., with consideration for the rights of others. Violation of the rules against noise may be referred to the Yale College Executive Committee for disciplinary action.
